Invitation to Prospective Members

This letter is to introduce the New Zealand Association of Economists, and to invite you to apply for membership.

The Association was founded in 1959, and it has five constitutional objectives:

- To promote collaboration and discussion among professional economists in New Zealand.
- To encourage research and to publish the results of that research and other relevant material.
- To obtain and disseminate information on research projects in progress or anticipated.
- To promote the profession of economics in New Zealand.
- To foster in all sections of the community interest in and understanding of New Zealand economic problems.

In pursuit of these objectives the Association organises an Annual Conference for its members, publishes (Asymmetric Information) regular email alerts and its professional journal (the New Zealand Economic Papers) three times a year available online. The Association also sponsors several annual prizes, the “Bergstrom Scholarship in Econometrics”, the “Seamus Hogan Research Prize”, the “Jan Whitwell Prize” for the best presented student paper, plus various Graduate Study Awards and Conference Assistant’s prizes awarded at our Annual Conference.

The conferences are lively meetings in keeping with the important issues discussed at them. Because the Association’s constitution forbids it from making any statements on economic policy it can provide a neutral but effective forum for the analysis and debate of a wide range of economic issues. The conferences are a useful way of keeping up to date with the latest developments in economic thought. A feature in recent years has been the presence of distinguished overseas economists invited by the Association to speak on their area of expertise.

There are hundreds of Association members working in many sectors across the country. Membership is open mainly to those who have a degree in economics or commerce, and who in the normal course of work use the tools of economic analysis as teachers, investigators, or advisers on economic matters.

Subscriptions: The annual subscriptions for 2026 (1 January to 31 December) are as follows:

- NZ$170.00 (GST inclusive) for full membership.
- NZ$170.00 for overseas membership.
- NZ$85.00 (GST inclusive) for New Zealand graduate students for first year only, and post-graduate students.

This subscription includes online access to “New Zealand Economic Papers” Weekly updates and our newsletter “Asymmetric Information” via email.

I invite you to consider joining our Association.
